> MR. HENSCHEL'S AMER-ICAN TOUR. . [BY CABLE TO THE TRIBUNE.]

Copyright; 1888: By The New-York Tribune London, Nov. 5 .- I think it is fair betting that there is not a man in the Queen's dominions, who, during the last twenty years, has so many nights in railway as has Her Majesty's eldest son. During his Indian tour all the Prince's railway journeys were made by night. Look at his recent record. On one night he travels by rall from Roumania to Vienna. following night he spends in the train on his way to the shooting-ground. He shoots all day, comes back the same night to Vienna without a break quits Vienna by night on a journey for Paris, and travels by night from Paris to London. The night between Friday and Saturday of that week he spent travelling from London to Balmoral; the night between Monday and Tuesday of last week he spent on the return journey to town. And Ilis Royal Highness is never fitter than after a night of railway travel. He seems to rise from his railway couch adequately refreshed, certainly in excellent form for either pleasure or business. There are few who will not envy the Royal traveller his tronclad PLANS OF THE PRINCE OF WALES

The Prince went to Sandringham on Friday after noon to join the Princess and the three Princesses, who, after witnessing Baldwin's descent at Alexan dra Palace last Tuesday, returned to their country residence. His Royal Highness will now live at Sandringham with little intermission till about the end of February, though he will spend a few days at Marlborough House next month and also pay visit to Windsor just before Christmas. On Friday evening the Prince and Princess will give their annual ball to the country people of Norfolk, in celebration of His Royal Highness's birthday. A large and distinguished house-party will be entertained

Monday, when the Prince goes on a visit to

Derby. THE DISMISSAL OF LORD SACKVILLE.

The United States Government having thought proper to send Lord Sackville a "safe conduct," to Secretary Bayard's expression, the representation of Great Britain at Washington passes abruptly from a diplomatist of forty years' experience to a Junior Secretary, with the commission of Charge d'Affaires. Mr. Herbert, who now holds that positi is a brother of Lord Pembroke and of Lady De Grey He is only in his thirty-first year. tary of the British Legation in Washington, Mr. Ed wardes, Lord Kensington's brother, is in England, and was not expected to return to America. But, possi-bly, under the altered condition of affairs, he now will take over the duties of Charge d'Affaires from Mr. Herbert, as the appointment of a successor to Lord Sachville is likely to be indefinitely postponed. I understood that some time since arrangements had en made that, should Mr. Cleveland be re-elected, Mr. Phelps was to go home and be suc Mr. Endicott, the Secretary of War in Mr. Cleve-land's Cabinet, and father of the young lady whose engagement to Mr. Chamberlain was affirmed, denied and reaffirmed. Whether Mr. Cleveland carries his second term or not, Mr. Phelps will most probably vacate the appointment; but while England is repre sented at Washington by a Charge d'Affaires, the interests of the United States here will probably be entrusted to Mr. Henry White, acting in a similar THE BEQUEST TO THE MAIDS OF HONOR.

Miss Phipps, Miss Cavendish, Miss Drummond and Miss Moore have no intention whatever of renouncing the fortune left them by the late Lord Sackvill The uncertainty which prevails as to the precise term of the bequest has caused a number of other ladies, not equally lucky, to receive premature congratulations from their friends. It is Lady Derby, Lord Sackville's sister, who has entered a caveat against the will. Her solicitors are sanguine of success. LORD TENNYSON RECOVERING.

Lord Tennyson, who is still in Surrey, has been sick for some months and was so seriously ill at the beginning of last week that grave apprehensions were felt by his family for the moment. urgent symptoms have passed away, but he is still very prostrate and weak. The attack he suffered after developing symptoms of rheumatic gout suddenly assumed those of rheumatic fever. weakness and age still cause his family great uneast

PROBABLE RETIREMENT OF THE SPEAKER. Notwithstanding the favorable bulletins of the Speaker which have appeared since his return from witzerland, I have reason to believe that his health is still in a very unsatisfactory state. It is in the highest degree improbable that he will be able to occupy the chair next year. Sir Matthew White Ridley will most likely succeed Mr. Pecl, and be the first Conservative Speaker since 1835. AN ANECDOTE ABOUT MR. GLADSTONE.

curiously characteristic story of Mr. Gladstone te told as having occurred during the summer Gladstone had occasion to come into contact with Mr. Frederic Harrison, who had just published his study of Oliver Cromwell. A good deal of conversatook place on the book, and Mr. Gladstone asked Mr. Harrison if he really considered Cromwell very great man. Mr. Harrison answered warmly in the affirmative, giving his reasons, and in return asked Mr. Gladstone what was his estimate of the Lord Protector, what position he would assign him in the political hierarchy. Mr. Gladstone is have replied: "Well, somewhere after Lord Althorp."

LORD BANDOLPH CHURCHILL'S HEALTH. A correspondent writes to ask me who invents the reports circulated with so much gusto, at intervals, that Lord Randolph Churchill very bad state of health and means to retire from public life. Some one must be very anxious to get Lord Randolph out of the way. The story last appeared in what is supposed to be a friendly quarter, at Birmingham. All this solicitude is entirely thrown away. Lord Randolph was never in better health in his life than at this moment. nservatives, who remember what he did for their party in and out of Parliament between 1880 and 1885, are by no means in a hurry to see him retire. Their views run in a different direction altogether. Next week Lord Randolph will address his constituents

A BOOK PUBLISHER ON TRIAL

Nobody can have been surprised at the result of the prosecution at the Old Balley of Vizetelly, the publisher of certain notorious translations of some of the worst and most offensive of M. Zola's novels. neither the legal principles nor the questions of fact involved in the case was there any room for doubt or hesitation. Nothing can be clearer than that the publication of what is technically termed an obscene libel-that is, of an indecent or immoral book or writing-is a misdemeanor, or that such works as "La Terre," or "Pot-Bouille," or "Nana" are in the et degree immoral, indecent and obscene. must, however, be confessed that the literary censorship has been of late years so uncertain and capricious Vizetelly may very possibly have imagined, as was stated at the trial, that he was not breaking the law. When he knew that unredeemed, unmitigated filth, like that contained in "Maiden Tribute of Modern Babylon," could be hawked about the streets with impunity, he may well have supposed that M. Zola's pro sections would be telerated.

THE CHETWYND CASE AGAIN.

Lords Cadogan and March have consented to act in reference of the Chetwynd case. Negotiations for the choice of a third arbitrator are well advanced. Everything will be settled this week, but Mr. George Lewis's time is of course very fully occupied with the Parneil

THE DUKE AND DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH.

The Duke and Duchess of Marlborough 'save England shortly to pass the winter at Monte Carlo, where they have taken a villa for five months. The Duke has sold his fine house in Palacegate to Mr. Labouchere, as the Duchess prefers to reside at Carlton House Terrace. COMMONPLACE PICTURES AT THE INSTITUTE.

The pictures at the Institute are rather depressing. There are 629, all told, none either good enough or bad enough to be worth much critical powder and The painters, while more or less skilful, are not inventive and not original, and cannot even see color and form with their own eyes. The exceptions are Mr. John R. Reid, to whom nature always appears extraordinarily red in the face; Mr. Edwin Ward, who certainly has his own way of looking at a sitter; Mr. David Murray, who gives us a pleasant, charmingly natural glimpse of a tall cottage, the chimney peeping should begin to think there has through the dusk, with curtained window dimity glownot to say mischief, somewhere!

ing on a hillside in the evening; Mr. Blair Leighton's work shows increasing power and resource; Mr. F. D. Millett's "Tender Chord," printed "Thunder Cloud" in the catalogue, is beautifully delicate in color, contrasting strongly with the heavy richness of the president's portraits of Miss Meredith Crosse.

ILLNESS OF MR. OLIPHANT.

I regret to learn that Mr. Laurence Oliphant's illness, which had taken so favorable a turn that he was preparing to leave Surbiton for his house at grave that but slight hopes are entertained for his eventual recovery. Mr. Oliphant is suffering from an old affection of the chest. It is now feared that cancerous symptoms have developed themselves. His condition is pronounced very critical.

MR. HENSCHEL'S TOUR OF AMERICA. Mr. Henschel writes that after his last symphony concerts in March, the expiring series of which be supported by a much increased number of subscribers, partly on account of the excellent programme and partly because of reduced prices, he will start with Mrs. Henschel for an extended tour through the United States, going even so far as San Francisco, whence he will return in July just to delight his many friends again with a few recitals.

The wedding of Robert G. Hardie, the portrait painter, of this city, to Miss Carrie Cullom, a daughter Senator Shelby M. Cullom, will occur in Springfield, Ill., on November 14. Miss Lilla Brokaw, daughter of W. V. Brokaw, will be married to Harry Bramhall Gilbert at her father's residence, No. 599 Fifth-ave., on Thursday evening. The bride and bridesmaids will be dressed in the fashion of the First Empire.

Mrs. T. Streatfield Clarkson, of No. 22 West Twenty-second-st., will give a tea on December 3 to introduce her daughter, Miss Madge Clarkson.

An attractive home wedding occurred at the home of the bride's parents, No. 107 West Eleventh-st., last Wednesday at noon. The bride was Miss Mary A. Sanford and the brideroom Franck C. Jennings. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles W. King. The guests present included relatives and intimate friends.

PLANS OF ACTORS AND MANAGERS.

Last night "A Hole in the Ground" entered upon the final week of its engagement at the Fourteenth Street Theatre. The attendance was good and the performance went well, as usual. "A Brass Monkey" at the Bijou also drew a large house, notwithstanding the election excitement. To-night the regular and special election returns will be read from the stages of both theatms.

Dockstader's Minstrels presented a new bill last night, aside from the afterpiece. The burlesque on The Yeomen of the Guard" will not be ready before hursday night. To-night the election returns will be read during the performance in such a way as to make them a feature of the fun and specialties.

The second and last week of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at the Star Theatre opened last evening to a large and attentive audience. Special election returns will be received by private wire in the lobby of the theatre to-night and read from the stage between the

"Mr. Barnes of New.York" will acquaint his visitors at the Broadway Theatre to-night with the latest returns of the great political contest, as furnished by the Western Union Telegraph Company. Special matinees will be given to-day at the follow-william Morris is reported to have abandoned his scheme of taking Miss Loie Fuller on a starring four to South America.

Joseph Jefferson has secured the services of John Gilbert for the remainder of the season at a salary that many stars would not refuse.

Marion Larce, the Brooklyn young woman whose desire to impersonate "She" led her to ride through the streets of Williamsburg last Friday attired in the robes of that mythical queen, wants to try the experiment again. She will probably have an opportunity to do so in this city before long.

The date of Miss Mary Anderson's reappearance at Palmer's Theatre next week has been changed from Monday evening to Tuesday evening.

MISS JULIA MARLOWE AS "PARTHENIA."

Washington, Nov. 5 (Special).—Miss Julia Marlowe night under most favorable auspices. Though Washington has but few of its fashionable society here now, those representatives who are in town were numbered among Miss Marlowe's audience, which was large and "Ingomar" was the play, and Miss Marlowe as Parthenia had an excellent opportunity to show the mettle that is in her. Her conception differs from that of Miss Anderson, with whom it was impossible not to compare her, though in this respect the youthful star does not suffer. She has a charming personality that at once wins the sympathy of her audience. Her eyes are large and expressive, her face is mobile, her figure rounded and graceful, and her movements thoroughly natural. Her voice is resonant and pleasant in tone, and though not ample in volume, has sufficient power even in the most impas-sioned passages. She makes Parthenia more girlish than Miss Anderson, and in this respect invests the character with a greater charm. There was no straincharacter with a greater charm. There was no straining for effect, but on the contrary, a naturalness that was refreshing. There was not the declamatory force in the serious scenes that is usually met with, but the lines were not the less effectively rendered. Miss Mariove has spleudid qualities to build on, and though it would be wrong to say she was a finished artlet at present, she has made a beginning which promises a bright future for the young star. She was ably supported by Charles Barron as Ingomar and a strong company.

WRITTEN IN 1840, BUT FITS LIKE A GLOVE TO-DAY.

MR. GREELEY'S PROPHETIC ARRAIGNMENT OF PRESIDENT AND PARTY IN 1888.

From The Log Cabin, Sept. 19, 1840. When the people of this country look at the Post Office Department-that ne plus ultra of the benefits of civilization, properly conducted, but must fearful engine of despotic power when abused-and see it perverted from its sacred designs, in the operation of all its vast and hidden machinery, from the highest officer that presides over it down to its most remote and obscure agent, wherever he may be, all to secure the reelection of the President; when they have evidence undisputed, that the letters, documents and papers of the dominant party are posted with all possible speed to their destination, while those of the other party are subjected to the fingering and surveillance of the entire corps of the Department, delayed, often violated, and to an immense extent entirely suppressed-all to secure the re-election of the President; when they see an army of a hundred thousand office-holders, agents and beneficiaries of the Government, all busy, all intent, all devoted, not to the interests of the people but to the interests of their chief, to secure his re-election, and by consequence their own advantage; when they observe that all promises of reform have been realized only in abuses of prerogative and usurpations of power, and all proposed retrenchments of public expenditures have resulted in a manifold and unheard of increase; when they see the commerce of the country crippled, manufactories shutting up and breaking down and labor, the only capital of the workingman, the only thing he has to sell, going down to the standard of despotic States and barbarous tribes-all to secure the re-election of the President, to perpetuate power in the same hands, and all at the expense of the peoplesurely, with this veritable vision, no enchanting one, before our eyes, with all these astounding facts, and many more of the same kind which we have not time to mention, staring the American people in the face, it is no wonder that they should begin to think there has been a mistake,

JUDGING FINE HORSES

THOUSANDS GO TO THE BIG SHOW. WONDERFUL NURSLING TROTTER THAT MAY

RIVAL MAUD S.-THE PRIZE WINNERS. The theatres must have suffered last evening, for arly all the first-nighters were at the horse show. P. T. Barnum's Greatest Show on Earth would do good business if it could always draw such a crowd of 8 and 11 p. m. The attendance during the day was not large, but thousands saw the jumpers compete for the silver cup evening. The contest was to off at 9:30, but the horses did not go to the post until 10. Everything is expected to be a little bit slow on opening day. Hereafter there will be no friction, and the show will proceed with a big sorts and conditions of jumpers seeking the prize. Some could jump and some couldn't, some stepped over the obstacles, some climbed over, some slid over. Some got half over and scrambled back again. Nobody was thrown, no horse killed. Nothing but fences suffered serious injury. The cup was given to a chestnut gelding of the name of Salisbury, which goes to show that the judges, notwithstanding Erother Sachville's election dodge, are kindly disposed toward England and the English. Salisbury is owned by the firm of Moorhouse & Pepper.

The judging began at 2 o'clock, the thoroughbreds being the first to enter the ring. There were only nine of these (classes 1 and 5), and they passed in review before James R. Keene, Colonel J. H. Brad-ford and Colonel S. D. Bruce, who consented to act as judges. Rayon d'Or, Congressman W. L. Scott's imported Frenchman, will not be seen here, the "coa baron' fearing to expose his costly pet to the dangers of a railroad journey from Erie to Jersey City. A. J. Cassatt's stallion, Bend Or, who is noted particularly for never having sired a race horse of quality, took first prize, and Coldstream, a four-year-old chesinut colt by Rayon d'Or-Pride of the Village, who is heavily in debt to a large number of confiding followers of the turf-Coldstream, you know, was always going to win, but never quite got there-captured the Coldstream is owned by E. D. Morgan Dr. H. W. Freeman's imported Greenback, a well-named horse by Dollar, out of Music, was "very highly commended." Many excellent judges of running horses thought that Greenback should have received the highest honor instead of Bend Or. Thre other animals imported by Dr. Freeman were in the lot-Bonnie Brown, Bay Muncaster and The Rake. All are fashionably bred and will be sold by William

The judging of the trotters was confined to stallion or years old and fillies under four and over three In the former class the first prize was taken by . J. Hamlin's Chimes, by Electioneer-Moor, and the second by Rundle & White's Forwood, by Nutwood-Lady Foxle. King Cossack was very highly com Mr. Hamlin's Nightingale took first honors among the filles.

Dumpling is the appropriate name for a fat and round little pony that took first prize in the pony class. He is owned by Miss Consuelo, daughter of William K. Vanderbilt, and none of the horse tribe ever appeared more handsomely caparisoned. Dumpling did not deserve the blue resette, his trappings certainty did. Miss Consuelo and her little brother were delighted beyond measure with their

The tandems completely filled the eye of ever spectator. Eight teams entered the ring. W. E. D. Stokes's famous blacks, The Devil and Erebus, were considered sure winners, but they did not show to advantage. The Devil took fright at the band and played the devil, which somewhat discomp Erebus. Mr. Stokes drove them, and had his hands full, F. T. Underhill entered two teams to take a prize. T. B. Burnham's team, Gamecock and Peacock, took first prize. No two horses could look or act more alike. They are bay geldings, aged, and of precisely the same height-15.2. Gamecock keeps his eye on Peacock and tries to keep step with him. They fear nothing, and their movements are full of spirit, pride and grace. They deserved the blue resette. The cobs in harness were a sorry lot. Two were disqualified for being under fourteen hands in height-Mrs. Robert Sedgwich's Bessie, and Mrs. Barclay Warburton's Merrylegs. None of the others were good enough to wear a blue rosette, so no first prize was second prize went to S. S. Sands, jr.'s. Queen, and the third to Mrs. James M. Waterbury's

At 7:30 Prince Cossack got permission from his inplay. One of his uncle Cossacks went along with him to show him off. The nurshing Prince is pr sely five months and twenty-eight days old, and scarcely larger than a California jack-rabbit, yet his keeper selemnly asserts-calling Don Cossack and the rest of the Cossack family to witness-that he can trot a mile in four minutes! How is that for a youngster who has not cut his milk teeth? In the ring the precocious little fellow stepped over the tan-bark in impressive style, while Uncle Cossack galloped be-side him. "Why, sohr," said this same keeper, "Mr. Robert Bonner and Mr. Grant, whut's runnin' fur Mair oon ther Dimmercrat Tammany ticket, saw this colt go a quarter ut a mile at Fleetwood in fifty. An take that for a five-months baby." The Cossack family is a large and exclusive one and its members have won many blue rosettes. Speaking of infants, the sweetest little innocent in the garden & Peacock, an imported Clydesdale colt wo years old. This gentle creature gets his name from his wonderful tail, which rivals that of the proudest barn-yard strutter that ever furnished feathers for a fly-brush. Peacock has not enough teeth to bite corn, but he weighs over 1,200 pounds fake a look at him. The Jumbo of the Garden is Old Mother Hubbard, a brown mare, weighover 1,900 pounds. The exhibit of Clydesdales is a useful one, inasmuch as their importa-tion is just beginning to assume large proportions. They have more bone than the Normans and are more hardy. At the same time they are less sluggish than brap d'Or, the handmsomest coach horse in the world, as thousands of admirers declare, received as much attention as any animal in the show. This is indeed a magnificent creature to gaze upon. He is a dark chestnut with white points, stands 16.2, is seven years old and weighs over 1,400 pounds. He was im ported from France four years ago by his present owner, H. E. Wilson, proprietor of the French Creek Valley Stock Farm, Venango, Penn. His sire Ugigi, is known in France as one of the "National stallions." The paternal French Government takes a hand in almost everything in Gaul that tends to the improven of the horse. It has established a high standard of excellence for the country's famous breeds of coaching horses, and no ordinary stallion can pass the civil service examination to which all are subjected be-fore the trade mark "National stallion" can be applied. The term is a State guarantee of merit of the highest class. Ugigi being a National stallion, his get must be classed among the upper ten of hersedom. Drap d'Or-"cloth of gold"-has for a companion about the same age. Mr. Wilson has refused $600 for this city who will pay any price for the proper kind litical service." of coach horse, and breeders are beginning to find it out. Mr. Wilson is one of the most progressive breeders in this country, and his venture will be well rewarded. The high knee action demanded in the coach horse is seen in its perfect development in Drap d'Or. When he steps he seems to proud to live A. J. Cassatt's imported mare Freedom took first prize among the carriage-horses, C. Weidenfeld's Nick of Orange second, Mrs. R. Fulton Cutting's Cecchino third and E. D. Morgan's Thistle fourth. The dis play was an attractive one. Some superb saddle-borses were entered in Clas-

The blue resette fell to Mrs. T. B. Burnham's Don Juan, the red to F. T. Underhill's The Doctor, the yellow to Miss Camilla Moss's Caprice, and the white to Mrs. A. Ladenburg's Paulette.

COLUMBIA'S NEW LATIN PROFESSOR.

DR. H. T. PECK ELECTED TO FILL THE CHAIR BY THE TRUSTEES OF THE COLLEGE.

An important step was taken by the trustees of columbia College yesterday afternoon, in the election of a professor to fill the Latin chair of the college which was made vacant in December, 1886, by death of Professor Charles Short. Since that time the names of seventeen different candidates have been before the trustees, and again and again has the election been postponed. Gradually, however, the number of candidates has been lessened, until, when the question came up for action yesterday, there were but three names that were considered. three, the choice of the faculty as well as the choice of the students became the choice of the trustees, and Dr. Harry Thurston Peck was elected.

Upon the death of Professor Short, he was put in charge of the Latin chair at the college, and was se cted to deliver the memorial address before the convocation of the Regents of the University at Albany in July, 1887. Both as a student and as an instructor e has been popular with the college boys, and when the boys heard of his election last night, three rousing heers were given with a will. The two other can didates were Professor Spiney G. Ashmore, of Columbia, '72, who was recommended for the position by Bishop Potter, and Professor E. W. Hopkins, '78, Columbia, who was recommended by President Barnard.

Two honorary fellowships were awarded in the graduate department of the School of Arts, to C. J. Deghuee and Henry A. Sill. A resolution was also passed, giving power to a committee of three to arrange a course of six lectures to be given at the college on the "Evidences of Natural and Revealed Re-ligion." The committee appointed to receive non-inations for president of the college did not report.

NOTES FROM HARVARD UNIVERSITY.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 5 (Special).-The year of the National campaign always forms an exciting period in every Harvard man's college life, and this year has been no exception to the rule. The class voted at the beginning of the year to take part in the Republican procession in Boston. About 600 students participated, including a well-organized for Harrison of 147 out of nearly 1,200 votes cast

At a recent meeting of the Overseers it was voted that the Committee on Government be requested " to consider and report promptly to the Board upon the advisability of making attendance at dally prayers or at roll-call, for those who do not wish to attend prayers, compulsory; also, upon the advisability of naking attendance upon recitations and lectures cor pulsory, and to report whether in their opinion any further action is necessary in regard to the general rules affecting discipline and studies in the uni-

The football team has greatly improved since Harding and Lee recovered from their injuries. The eleven is especially weak in tackling and dropping on the ball; it is not playing a close game, and is kick ing the ball much more than last year. The game a week from Saturday with Princeton will be a deciding one, and Harvard will have to improve greatly to win it.

M. Coquelin, the French comedian, gave his lecture on "L'Art du Comedien," in Sanders Theatre, last Thursday, to a large audience of students and their friends. The lecture was given under the auspices of the Conference Francaise, and was well received.

A PROSPEROUS CONVALESCENT HOME. The ninth annual meeting of the New-York Home for Convalescents took place yesterday at No. 433 East One-hundred and eighteenth-st. After prayer by Mrs. Rebecca Collins, the first "woman preacher" in America, the report of the secretary was read, showing that during the past year 153 persons had been received into the Home. One woman age, sixty-nine, who had exerted herself beyond her strength to earn her daily bread, reached the Home so exhausted that death soon ended her troubles. The report of the treasurer showed a balance of $100 on hand. remarks by the Rev. Dr. Hulburd, the meeting closed with the election of the following officers: Mrs. Dr. N. C. Palmer, chairman; Mrs. James Wood, first vicepresident; Mrs. Dr. A. Buchanan, second vice-president; Mrs. L. H. Rogers, third vice-president; Mrs. Sara Bourne, recording secretary; Mrs. H. D. Nelson, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Bradford Rhodes treasurer. Excellent work is being done by these good women who devote their time and money to caring for those who, though not ill enough to be admitted to the hospitals, are still unable to work.

UNCLE AND NIECE QUICKLY MARRIED. Anna Leiffer haled Hirsch Tobe, her uncle, before Judge Ehrlich in the City Court yesterday, demanding $5,000 for breach of promise of marriage and betrayal. Tobe, who is a Delancey-st. tinsmith, told the Judge that he would marry her on the spot if she would withdraw the suit. She consented at once and the Judge tied the knot.

POLITICAL EVOLUTION.

JEFFERSONIAN DEMOCRACY-1803. The President has seen with dissatisfaction officers of the General Government taking active parts in the elections of public functionaries. . . . It is ex-pected that no officer will attempt to influence the votes of other men, nor take any part in the business of electionsering, that being deemed inconsistent with the spirit of the Constitution .- (From Thomas Jefferson's circular to officeholders, 1803. CLEVELANDISH DEMOCRACY-1888.

The President gives $10,000 to the party campaign fund, and leaves the Capital to review a political parade. The Secretary of State, the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of the Interior and the Postmaster-General leave their offices and go over the country on stumping tours. A LIVING ISSUE IN THE STATE CAMPAIGN.

A MILLION DOLLARS FOR THE INDIANS. THIS OFFER MADE ON CONDITION THAT TWICE

THAT AMOUNT BE RAISED. The New-York Academy of Anthropology met yes terday in room No. 22 of the Cooper Union. The opening paper, which was read by Dr. M. L. Holbrook, had been sent from Jumalpur, India, by Raj. Coemar Roy, one of the society's correspondents. It was on "The Hindoos," and described the state of on The Figure 2 and the relative progress attained by them in intellectual culture. Oinah, a woman of the Mohawk tribe, appeared on the platform in her native dress and told in simple language of the customs and habits of the North American Indians, and referred bitterly to the impositions and wrongs that they had endured from time to time at the hands of dishonest, greedy

The last speaker was Viroqua, Princess of the Six Nations of the Mohawks who live on the Grand River Reservation. Her address was in regard to an Indian College which she is endeavoring to have Philadelphian, who has been living in England for the last ten years, has promised to contribute $1,000,000 toward such an institution on condition that two millions more are raised in this country. The princess is quite confident of success in the attainment of her object, and is going to lecture on the subject in various parts of the country. established at Washington. REGRET AT A BROKER'S SUSPENSION. William V. Carolin, a well-known and populas member of the Stock Exchange, announced his suspension yesterday. He said that he had no outstanding contracts and the failure was attributed generally to a lack of business.

The announcement was received with universal regret. Mr. Carolin was elected a member of the Governing Committee in 1885, but before his term of four years expired he resigned the place because the board would not adopt some system of clearing trans-actions. He was admitted to the Exchange on Feb-ruary 17, 1877.

MINSTRELSY AT NIBLO'S.

Many innovations on the old style of minstrel shows were introduced by Thatcher, Primrose and West's Minstrel Company last night at Niblo's, in the presence of a goodly audience. The people in the first part wore costumes representing the various characters in Shakespeare's works from Romeo to Falstaff. The endmen were attired as Touchstone and the orchestra, which was grouped on a raised plat from back of the circle, represented heralds of the fourteenth century. The favorable impression receive from this attractive picture was not once marred by a stale joke or a poor song. In the olio were several new specialty features, which betrayed the artistic hand of Barney Fagan in their arrangement

MARGARET MATHER AS LEAH.

Miss Margaret Mather appeared at the Grand Opera House last night in "Leah the Forsaken." The attendance was large and friendly, and Miss Mather was frequently recalled. Charles Hagar as Rudolph was earnest and painstaking, and J. B. Studley gave a good interpretation of the part of Nathan. "The Lady of Lyons" will be played at the matinee

The officers of the 22d Regiment assembled at the armory last evening for the purpose of electing Captain William V. King, of Company B received thirteen votes, Captain John P. Company I, received thirteen and Captain George F. Demorest, of Company G, received two. of them having received a majority of the votes cast, Colonel Camp declared that there was no election, and adjourned the election for two weeks. There were two officers absent, one of whom is pledged to Captain King and the other to Captain Leo.

CHOOSING A SUCCESSOR TO LI TU DOO.

All Chinatown is excited over the election of ccessor to Li Yu Doo, a member of the Chinese Municipal Council, who recently died. The Chinese Council is a strictly local body, appointed by the Chinese themselves, its jurisdiction being confined to that portion of the city bounded by Mott and ulberry sts. Once a year the Chinamen elect their Mayor and Council, whose terms of office do not expire until March. For the vacancy created by Li Yu Doo's death, there are several candidates, all shop-keepers, chief among whom is Wong Chong whose headquarters are at No. 5 Mott-st. All yesterday afternoon a procession of pig-tailed figures, each bearing a ticket decorated with Chinese hieroglyphics and stamped with red seals, filled the streets of Chinatown. On inquiry it was ascertained that these gentlemen were the canvassers for the Wong Chong Sam party against which there is arrayed at least heif a dozen rival combinations, each having headquarters in Mott-st.

BATTLING WITH A HAWK.

Reading (Penn.) dispatch to The Philadelphia North American.

James P. Schaeffer, of Rockland, a village near this city, will never forget his experience with a hawk yesterday. He was driving his team toward Fleetwood, and noticed a hawk soaring above him. He stopped the team and was looking with wonder upon the bird's aerial evolutions, when it ruddenly lessened the circumference of the circle in which it was thing and poising itself, descended to the ground with lightning-like rapidity, alighting within three feet of where the astonished farmer sat on his wagon. It showed fight, and Mr. Schaeffer accepting the challenge, jumped to the ground with a club in his hand, and attacked it. The hawk, not all daunted, met him with beak and talons strong and pointed, and it was only after a desperate fight, during which the hawk inflicted wounds of a serious nature about Mr. Schaeffer's eyes, face and hands, that he succeeded in killing it. The hird measures five feet six inches from tip to tip, and Mr. Schaeffer freely admits that he would have stood no chance at all had he not had a club.
